

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A wavelength filter includes lattice structures that are arranged at predetermined intervals in the direction of an optical axis. Each of the lattice
5 structures has regions of two different refractive indices that are alternately arranged.